

This is a department of JUMS which offers UG programs in public health in order to train fresh graduates who can provide people of the country with necessary information on prevention, sanitation, water treatment and other related issues.

Students in this field of study focus on public policies relating to health issues and programs. It includes communicable diseases, nutrition, water treatment and also providing awareness about any natural and unnatural hazards that threaten man's life.